Did You Know :

- Third Age Learning stimulates cognitive function - one of the best strategies for healthy, happy aging
- Third Age Learning exposes members to new ideas, and new perspectives on old ideas.
- Third Age Learning attracts really good speakers—experts with fascinating things to say about their field of expertise
- Third Age Learning encourages questions and discussion among members.
- Third Age Learning creates and maintains strong social networks.
- Third Age Learning provides opportunities for sharing interests and activities that guard against loneliness and isolation
- Third Age Learning creates an environment where the knowledge, experience, and energy of a lifetime can be put to good use, benefiting both participants and the community.

Third Age Learning is a fun, entertaining, and challenging way to give your brain a good workout.

Learning is for Life!

3ALB is:

- Inclusive and welcoming to all seniors and retirees.
- Affordable - $40 for 8, 2-hour presentations (lecture, break, Q&A session).
- Easily accessible by car or public transit. Parking is free at the library.
- Stimulating and enjoyable. We present outstanding speakers who are experts in their fields.
- Member-driven—towards the end of the initial series, members will be consulted about topics for future series.

3ALB is also:

- Incorporated as a non-profit organization
- Independent and autonomous
- Organized and run by volunteer members
- Committed to forming mutually beneficial community partnerships
- Closely modeled on Third Age Learning, Guelph and Third Age Learning Kitchener-Waterloo which have, for more than twenty years, consistently delivered sold-out lecture series to their communities
